FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Business Printing to Order

The APS Partner Group gathers years of expertise in printing and document management to serve the international business community

2nd June 2008, Stuttgart – To better meet the growing demand for tailored and turnkey solutions for business printing and document management, a number of solutions developers and providers have united to form the manufacturer-independent Advanced Printing Solutions (APS) Partner Group. By sharing experiences and successful practices from projects of all sizes, APS partners can develop more successful and satisfying solutions for their customers. It also makes it easier to carry out cross-border projects for multinational organisations.

APS Partners have an intimate knowledge of printers and multifunction devices, of document and output management processes, and of the business and economic challenges facing companies of all sizes. Areas of particular expertise include bar code and forms printing, secure printing and cost control, and document management and workflow solutions. A broad, shared understanding of the business, process and technical issues also puts APS Partners in an unrivalled position to develop and deliver innovative solutions, consultancy and services of many kinds. These help businesses make large cost-savings, improve document-based workflows and boost the return on investment in document capture and printing technologies.

“Companies often think of printers and multifunction devices as just peripheral in the document workflow,” explains Stefan Schmidt, Managing Director of APS International and stethos, the German APS Partner. “But they can be much more than that. Our goal is to tap into the hidden capabilities, regardless of brand, to boost our clients productive use of their equipment.”

The group is active in Europe, the Middle East and Africa. A full, current list of partners and local contact details is available on the website.
